Senator Harris is the son of Charles H. Harris, of Cedartown. His wife is the daughter of General Joseph Wheeler, the famous "Joe" Wheeler, Confederate cavalry leader.

Mr. Harris was elected first to the senate in 1919, and was re-elected in 1925. Prior to his election to that office he served as director of the United States census from 1913 to 1915. From 1915 until 1919 he was federal trade commissioner.

Mr. Slaton was born in Meriwether county on Christmas Day, 1866. He attended the University of Georgia, and after being admitted to the bar became representative in the state legislature from Enlton county. He and after being admitted to the bar became representative in the state legislature from Fulton county. He served in the lower house of the legislature from 1896 until 1909, when he was elected state senator. When president of the senate he was made acting governor with resignation in 1912 of Governor Hoke Smith, he then was elected to that office.

It is expected that practically all of the candidates will shortly open up headquarters, most of them being located in Atlanta, and that the campaign will soon be under full headway.

other late qualifiers for major statehouse offices were former State Senator J. J. Flynt, who added his name to the seven already in the race for secretary of state; D. Talmadge Bowers, who entered the same contest; Robert B. Blackburn, of Atlanta, who will seek the place on the supreme court held by Justice Samuel S. Atkinson, and Edgar T. Gentry, an insurance man of Atlanta, who announced for comptroller-general.

Rumors of dark horse candidate for governor were dissipated when the entry list closed Tuesday with the qualification of only the five candidates who already had formally announced. The post, therefore, will be sought during the primary campaign by George H. Carswell, secretary of state; John N. Holder, former chairman of the highway board; James A. Perry, chairman of the public utilities commission; former State Senator E. D. Rivers and Richard B. Russell, Jr., speaker of the house.

Probably the most confusing race for the political prophets will be that for secretary of state, in which there will be eight candidates, nearly all NEW YORK, June 3.—(P)—Colonel William J. Donovan, former assistant United States attorney-general, was taken ashore on a stretcher tonight from the French liner Ile De France, which arrived from Europe. A wound Colonel Donovan received during the World War, when he was commander of the "Fighting Sixtyninth" regiment, reopened yesterday afternoon while he was playing deck tennis. The colonel was carried to his hotel in an ambulance. He joked with reporters about the injury and said it was of no consequence.

Colonel Donovan returned from Italy where he visited his family.

Dependable.

because it embodies features which assure unfailing service

The Pontiac Big Six enjoys a worldwide reputation for dependability-because it is built on big car principles and to big car standards of quality.

Its 60-horsepower motor develops maximum power at moderate engine speeds-is never over-taxed, no matter how fast or far you drive. The big main bearings are of the costly interchangeable airplane type. There is definite protection in the full pressure oiling system and crankcase ventilation which prevents dilution of the engine oil. Highly efficient cooling is assured by the cross-flow radiator. And Pontiac internal-expanding brakes are so well designed, so thoroughly weather-proof that they frequently run 30,000 miles before the lining needs replacement.

Comparable standards of quality rule in every other part and detail. You know, when you buy a Pontiac Six, you are buying a dependable car.

SENATOR HARRIS SILENT ON ENTRY OF SLATON.
WASHINGTON, June 3.—Senator W. J. Harris had no comment to make today when informed of news dispatches from Atlanta telling of the formal entry of former Governor
John M. Slaton in the Georgia primaries as a candidate against him.
It was indicated that he might have a statement later after an opportunity to read Governor Slaton's announcement.

to read Governor Slaton's announcement.

Recently the senior Georgia senator announced that he would be a candidate to succeed himself, confining his statement at the time to the simple declaration that he would seek renomination on his record.

Within Georgia circles of the national capital the information of Governor Slaton's intention to run was received with keen interest. Wherever members of the state congressional group met after the news of his announcement reached Washington little else was discussed. It was generally taken to mean that the state will witness a spirited political campaign this summer.

While reports had been received here late last week indicating that the former governor had decided to seek the senatorial toga, speculation over his plans remained acute up until the time of his actual filing today.

system of Georgia is also advocated.

conditions. Inse insurance commissiones has power under the law to inaugurate this reform.

There are numerous laws operating to the detriment of commerce and industry, and of a most serious nature, needing repeal or revision. One is the deposit law whereby insurance companies are required to deposit with the state treasurer $10,000 ostensibly for the protection of claimants in Georgia. Foreign corporations do the insurance business in Georgia and in the past when unfortunately they have failed, this deposit has been turned over to receivers in other states and administered to common creditors over the country, leaving Georgia creditors with their claims in the air. I shall not only advocate the repeal of this classe in the law but shall also insist upon a surety bond for each of these corporations of not less than $25,000, constituting an asset which can be seized upon by Georgia creditors to the exclusion of all other creditors and used for the settlement of claims in this state. Another tragedy of this law is its absolute bar to the organization and operation of domestic companies, because of reciprocal laws in other states. This constitutes the very singular reason why no Georgia capital is invested in these profitable enterprises.

I favor the repeal of certain of the so-called "anisance tax" provisions. If these taxes were collectible the returns to the treasury would not justify the disasting faction they create nor the expense of their collection.

The entire taxation system of the state meeds revision and of election they effect to the effice.

faction they create nor the expense of these collection.

The entire taxation system of the state needs revision and if elected to this office all its influence will be brought to bear in an effort to translate this unfortunate situation into an effective remedy. This great and rich state is in position to relieve the farms and homes of the people from taxation, and distribute the burden where it belongs, and collect ample funds to place its institutions in the forefront of modern progress.

3-Pound Turnips Grown on Only Farm in Atlanta

Judson Stokes brought three of his turnips in to The Constitution office Tuesday morning.

Placed on a pair of scales they weighed a bit over eight pounds. Three turnips—eight pounds. Judson Stokes beamed proudly.

Judson Stokes is a colored farmer who has been working with the soil and watching things grow for more than half his life. For the past 18 years he has been farming the old Perkerson farm on Stewart avenue.

"It's the only farm left in the city of Atlanta," he explained.
Everyone admired the turnips, great big fellows with delicate shadings of pink and white. But Judson Stokes wanted more than that. He had worked with his turnip patch at uight, tending the turnips down beneath the ground and wondering what they would look like.

"It's the 'niters'," he explained, having puzzled it out of the government bulletins on farming. "You put the 'niters' on the ground over the turnips on a cool night. The acid goes right down.

"See," he said, thumping the turnips with his forefinger, "how sound and firm the 'niters' makes them? Ground that used to make little turnips makes big ones like this now. 'Niters' looks like salt. It goes right through."

Judson, whose lean, hard frame is beginning to show the slightest hint of a stoop after nearly half a century beginning to show the slightest hint of a stoop after nearly half a century of farming, is all enthusiasm. He isn't tired. The government has given him something new. After a lifetime of producing small vegetables such as his father and he used to grow he now can go out on cool nights, sprinkle the magic "niters" and grow turnips that weigh almost three pounds each on the only farm in Atlanta. Why shouldn't he feel proud?

Talmadge Defends Insecticide Ruling

Stating that the law was complied with in the case of the Liquid Arsenate Chemical Company, of Shady Dale, to whose insecticide the state board of entomology recently denied registration and which Monday filed an injunction in Ocmulgee county to restrain the sales of the product, State Commissioner of Eugene Talmadge Tuesday issued a statement on the case.

The state chemists' analysis of the product showed that a gallon of it contained only about three-tenths of a pound of arsenate. The commercial value of three-tenths of a pound of arsenate is approximately 4 cents. Mixed with lime and water, the Shady Dale company was selling the product for $1.50 a gallon," he said.

"The order of the board of entomology was that this insecticide could not be registered until it came up to the requirements and standards set by the state chemist."

'Whangdoodle' Editor Southerner Wins Suspended by L. S. U. Distinction at 'Point'

At Annapolis Fete For Shrine Meeting Marital Rift Ends

ANNAPOLIS, Md.. June 3.—(P)
Midshipman T. B. Hughes, Kansas City, was formally presented with a flag today in the presence of all the midshipmen at the naval academy, Senor Enrique Olaya, president elect of Columbia, and several thousand commencement visitors, but he did not get a public kiss, as he-would have last June or in preceding years.

The presentation to him as commander of Company No. 1, which won in drill competition, was by Miss Alberta Ely, also of Kansas City.
This year the traditional kiss was censored, but by whom nobody seems to know. No official ban was promulgated.

It was just the same, however, as far as the principals are concerned, for several days ago it was revealed that Hughes to be an ensign after Thursday's graduation ceremony, and Miss Ely are engaged to be married.
The kissless ban affected some hundreds of others expected at the annual ring dance given by the second class tonight. The ring dance in other years was featured by the exchange of kisses when the girls relaced the coveted rings on the fingers of the midshipmen scheduled to graduate a year hence, but this year the word went out that public osculation was out.

BUNKIE, La., June 3 .- (A)-Maddened because his mother-in-law opposed his reconciliation with his estranged wife, Dudley Brown, 35, late today shot and killed the mother-in-law and critically wounded his wife. He then killed himself.

Brown became separated from his wife some time ago and left Bunkie. Early today he returned to Bunkie and visited his wife, who was living at her mother's home, for the purpose of straightening out his domestic discord and persaading Mrs. Brown to patch up the quarrel.

His mother-in-law, Mrs. Docle Sheets, it is reported, advised her daughter against reconciliation, and he was rebuffed. Later in the day Brown returned to the mother-in-law's home with a pistol and opened fire on both women.

A coroner's investigation was begun at once. Little was known about the principals in the shooting.

OF ELSIE JAY SHOP

New Whitehall Street Store Will Feature Hats and Frocks.

the Elsie Jay Shop at 77 Whitehall street has been attracting large crowds of guests, it is announced by the management. The entire store has been completely remodeled and refinished, presenting an attractive appearance over-all.

The entrance and show windows afford a means of displaying merchandise to the best advantage. Interior fixtures and trimmings are in walnut, thoroughly modern both in design and convenience, the modernistic effect reaching full play in the lighting system.

Exclusive fashions in frocks and hats at prices considered within the popular range will be featured by the shop. The entire first floor will be devoted to hats, and the second floor will be given over to the frocks.

The shop will be under the management of Carl C. Greenstone, who has had extensive experience in the operation of stores of this class, and Miss Laura Zopf, well known in Atlanta, will be his assistant in charge of the frock floor.

Mr. Greenstone says that the unalterable policy of the store is to please cuatomers. "When you enter our shop," he explains, "you are dicitis.

Only One Negro Voter Barred in Raleigh

RALEIGH, N. C., June 3.—(A)—One name was removed from the rolls and the party designation of another was changed today as a result of the hearing of the first batch of approximately 400 challenges brought against Raleigh negroes registered as democrats. The hearings will continue tomorrow and Thursday.

The negroes were challenged by supporters of United States Senator F. M. Simmons, candidate for renomination by the democratic party, simply on the grounds that "they are negroes."

simply on the grounds that "they are negroes."

Of 263 persons summoned to appear today for a hearing at the 16th precinct of Raleigh township, 184 failed to appear. Eight of those summoned turned out to be white persons and were discharged. Sheriff N. F. Turner reported he was unable to locate seven of the 263.

The 64 who did appear were augmented by two others who were challenged on the spot.

When the hearing began, Bart M. Gatling, Wake county manager for Senstor Simmons, who brought the challenges, withdrew 46 of the challenges. Eighteen others were over-culed.

Details of a plan whereby a group of Alabama bankers have helped the farmers on the road to better times were outlined Tuesday to the conference by C. R. Bell, president of the Commercial National bank of Anniston.

"No Food. No Help."

Mr. Bell said that the nine banks in his home county, Calhoun, held a conference and announced through the newspapers that any farmer who did not raise foodstuff in 1930 need not look to the banks for help in 1931.

The banker said the decision was reached to encourage farmers to "live at home and to grow the foods that go on their tables." He said he believed that "if this plan abould be adopted over the south, and if the bankers sent out such information, that it would go a long way toward solving the farm problem."

J. W. Harrelson, director of the department of conservation and development of North Carolina, discussed the "live-at-home" program in-augurated in North Carolina by Governor O. Max Gardner. He said that as a result of the sampaign, in which officials of the state and citizens generally took part, the increase in value of foodstuffs grown in North Carolina this year would reach an "estimated $30,000,000 to $50,000."

There is now little doubt that his banishment has not only been decreed, but will be enforced, the two things do not necessarily follow one another with any haste in France. On Wednesday a stern screent de ville "invited" as they say, a young Bearnais, complete with rustic pipe and beret and goats and dog, to accompany him to the police station, and there the peasant was given to understand that, although he would not be imprisoned or his goats lice station, and there the peasant was given to understand that, although he would not be imprisoned or his goats confiscated, he must leave Paris. So there is an end of one of the few remaining excuses for mistaking Paris for Arcady, and we shall see the goats no more, unless, indeed, the arrest is a clever piece of advertisement and the whole company is to appear at one of the music halls.

Dr. Douglas Vanderhoof, of Richmond, Va., read a paper on the medical cure of duodenal ulcer before the section on practice of medicine at the annual session of the national medical association two years ago, and in closing the discussion said: "In the current literature one often sees the statement that the medical treatment of duodenal ulcer is fraught with danger. In my whole experience, as I have outlined it here, I have never seen an instance of hemorrhage or parforation while the patient was under treatment, with the exception of one patient treated more than 10 years ago. . . . Of course, medical treatment will not cure 100 per cent of duodenal ulcers, but my experience certainly leads me to believe that an uncomplicated chronic duodenal ulcer is curable by medical treatment."

LITTLE ROCK, June 3.—(P)—Senator T. H. W. E. Hixon, former salesman, and C. A. Pounds, former auditor at the truck corporation's local branch, were the state's witnesses whose testimony was offered in an effort to show that there was a conspiracy between Neal and Saunders.

Pounds, the first called, testified that he had cashed a check for Neal in September, 1926, the money being charged to the home office, and that the money had been given to Neal while Saunders was in Neal's private office. He also testified that he had given Neal $50 from his cash drawer while Saunders was in Neal's office.

The state contends that Saunders put through the truck purchase and that he was paid $50 for each of the six trucks sold by the company.

Hixon was the company's salesman first assigned to obtain the city's order from the trucks. The state was forbidden to present most of his testimony because it pertained to conversations in which Saunders was not in part nor was he present when the Not Interested In Cannon.

"The committee will hear him if he wants to testify but will not demand or request him to do so unless he desires." the lobby committee chairman, who is here to deliver a commencement address at the University of Arkansas medical school tonight, said in his statement.

Before going into the case Saunders' attorneys offered a plea to quash the indictment on the ground that none of the witnesses save Taylor had appeared before the grand jury which returned the indictment on which Saunders had been called to trial. Saunders had been called to trial.

The state answered by putting Lucien Harris on the stand. Mr. Harris testified that he was secretary of the grand jury which returned the indictment and that the witnesses appeared to support every count.

"I took especial interest to see that everything was as it should be," Mr. Harris said. "There were witnesses who testified to support each count. Otherwise the grand jury would not have voted the bil."

On hearing the testimony of Mr. Harris, Mr. Wilson said, 'we withdraw the ples. We understood that some of the witnesses had not appeared. But we accept Mr. Harris' statement."

In offering its evidence to support the count charging that Saunders had obtained a bribe from the truck corobtained a brobe from the truck cor-poration, the state attempted to prove that a conspiracy had existed between Saunders and Neal, admitting in ar-guments made with the jury absent from the room that it was badly handicapped by the fact that Neal statement."

In making known that the jury would be under guard during the trial Judge Moore made no statement concerning discussion of the case, nor did he refer to the recent Taylor case, as a result of which five persons are under indictment for alleged jury tampering. River Camp Convicts Guests at Barbecue

A gang of prisoners from the River convict camp got a "break" Tuesday. Police Captain Grover C. Fain, his sister, Mrs. J. J. Waits, and their 71-year-old mother, Mrs. H. P. Fain, gave a "big barbecue" for a dozen men from the prison camp at the latter's home in Adamsville Tuesday noon.

The reason: an expression of appreciation for work the convicts have been doing on the grounds of the Big Bethel Methodist church at Big Bethel Methodist church at Adamsville, of which Mrs. Fain is a member, and for the construction of which she gave two acres of land. of young women at the 41st annual commencement exercises of Agnes Scott college. The graduates came from 12 states, the District of Columbia, China and Korea.

The commencement address was delivered by Dr. W. D. Hooper, professor of Latin at the University of Georgia, who spoke on "The Residum of a College Education." The baccalaureate sermon was preached on Sunday by Dr. Daniel Poling, of New York.

Much interest centered in the announcement of the progress of the college's development campaign, which has been under way for about two years. It was reported that more than $400,000 has been collected since last June. A new steam plant and laundry have been built, and an additional academic building, Buttrick hall, will be completed by September. About $300,000 is still needed in the campaign.

Reproduced, on these two pages are four auction bridge hands; the top is SOUTH or Dealer; the second, WEST; the third, NORTH, and the fourth, EAST. The play is to be at regular auction bridge. Dealer bids... others in rotation. This is the seventh of a series of twelve bridge hands, being offered to readers of The Atlanta Constitution, a different hand appearing in this newspaper each Wednesday for twelve weeks. To the contestants making the highest scores in the twelve games played, $1,000 in CASH prizes will be awarded. Please read these rules carefully so that no misunderstanding will ensue.

- 1—Hands are to be played with ordinary playing cards. The auction bridge hands reproduced above are merely to denote hands to be used by the players.
- 2-In bidding, there is to be no doubling. A revoke disqualifies the hand.
- 3—Special Tally sheets are to be used in keeping scores, and these tally sheets are issued FREE to contestants and can be secured only from the firms co-operating in this contest. There are no obligations of any kind and contestants can secure tally sheets simply for the asking. A different tally sheet is to be used each week. Go to any of the 55 firms represented on these two pages, and they will be pleased to give you a tally sheet for the week games are to be played. Get your tally sheet from a different firm each week—get acquainted with all of the advertisers on these two pages.

- 4—Write neatly and concisely just how you played your hand. This is very important. Prizes will be awarded for individual effort. Submission of answers identical in their description of the manner of play will be considered sufficient evidence of collusion and result in the elimination. nation of any such answers from further consideration. There is a special place for writing the outline of play on the Tally Sheet.
- 5—The following is a list of prizes to be offered winners making the highest scores and offering the clearest explanation of play in this Auction Bridge Contest:

6—IMPORTANT NOTICE! Should any contestant winning a prize, accompany the tally sheets with sales receipts, showing that purchases were made from at least 12 of the advertisers cooperating in this contest during the time this contest is on, the PRIZES ARE DOUBLED. For example:—Should contestant be adjudged winner of First Prize of $250.00 and sales receipts from at least twelve different co-operating firms accompany the tally sheets, the prize awarded will be $500.00; the Second Prize will be $200.00 instead of $100.00; the Third Prize $100.00 instead of $50.00 and so on.

7—Do NOT send in single tally sheets... wait until you have all twelve, then wrap neatly, and bring, send or mail to The Atlanta Constitution, addressed to the BRIDGE CONTEST EDITOR.
 8—Selection of winners will be made by Mrs. Annie Adair Foster, Atlanta's great bridge expert, and her decision on all points shall be considered final. If the explanation of play indicates that little or no attempt was made by adversaries to play their hands with ordinary skill and that as a result of such playing an abnormal score resulted, such score shall not be credited to the contestant. The best defense available must be used.

9—Readers of The Atlanta Constitution are urged to scan closely every advertisement appearing on these two pages. Each announcement is a superior value or offering and will profit the reader greatly. Do not overlook a single announcement, but read them all. And remember —when you make a purchase at any of the shops co-operating in this contest, ask for sales receipts, and send them in with your Bridge Scores, thus qualifying for a double prize. The Bridge Editor of The Atlanta Constitution will be pleased to give contestants any additional information regarding the contest, at any time. Improve your Bridge by entering this contest now.

10—It is not too late to get started in the contest. Details of the bridge hands already published may be secured from The Constitution. Get them, then get tally sheets for all of the games from the firms advertising on these pages. Get started now and win your share of the big cash prizes.

The two were driving toward Cochran on the Macon-Cochran short route. When they got out to examine the gasoline tank, the engine having stopped, Mrs. Rooks held a lighted match and Rooks measured the gas. The explosion followed.

Rooks ran for some distance with his clothes ablaze, laid down on the ground and tried to tear his clothing from his body. He beat out the fire with sand.

Then he returned to the automobile and tried to drive, but he collapsed after going a short distance. Three men carried him to Cochran where first aid was given. A railroad train then brought him to Macon.

All of Rooks' money which was in his pockets was destroyed by the fire.

Here is another way of figuring: Bob played 143 consecutive holes in 573 strokes against his opponents' total of 611, a difference of 38 strokes. Those 143 holes lack one hole of being two complete 72-hole tournaments.

Conceding him a par 4 on one more hole to make two complete rounds, he would have a total score for the two 72-hole rounds of 577, which would give him an average of 2881 strokes per Bobby's score of 573 strokes for 143 holes is one over 4's for his entire tournament play.

Playing against par for the 143 holes played, he was 2 up.

Playing against par for the 143 holes played, he was 2 up.

He scored 93 holes in par, 25 holes over par, 25 birdies and one eagle, of 26 holes under par.

Taking the four completed matches as a basis, Jones' best ball of his opponents—Tolley, Johnston, Voigt and Wethered—was all even.

You all no doubt have played ringer scores covering a period of months, so Bob's ringer score probably will be interesting in view of the fact that the score was made in one tournament.

LONDON, June 3.—(UN)—With promise of fair weather, a field of 18 of England's greatest 3-year-olds is expected to go to the post tomorrow for the 151st running of the most historic of horse races, the Epsom Derby.

Already the first of the 500,000 enthusiasts who will witness the classic are on the scene. Gypsy camp fires gleam on the rolling downs, and Epsom is crowded to capacity.

At daybreak, the roads leading to the famous race course will be choked with traffic, old fashioned tallyhos, modern automobiles, and many from hearby hurrying on foot.

wearby hurrying on foot.

While this year's Epsom Derby is considered by many turf experts as a wide open race, the public's choice is Sir Hugo Hirst's Diolite, which was backed down tonight to odds of 5 to 2. There was considerable backing for William Woodward's The Scout II., whose odds have shortened to 22 to 1, and a victory for the noted American sportsman, owner of Gallant Fox, Kentucky Derby winner, would be a popular one.

With certain doubts expressed as to the ability of the favorite, Diolite, to stay the mile and a half over the difficult up and down hill course, there was strong support at the last call-over of odds for Blenheim, Bally-Feris, Silver Flare, Trews and Rustom Pasha.

RADIO FOR WORLD.

For the first time, radio fans in all parts of the world, tuned in on hookups with the British Broadcasting Corporation, will be able to follow the running of the classic. Starting at S:45 a. m., eastern standard time, an account of the spectacle at Epsom Downs will be sent out from the press box and grandstand roof through Chelmsford Station G. 5 SW.

In addition to Woodward's The Scout II., there is one other American-owned horse in tomorrow's derby, A. K. Macomber's Parthenon, a 100-to-1 shot.

Two Atlanta Chessmen Win From Marshall

By Ralph McGill,

All the beauty doctors in the world could not have smoothed out wrinkled brows that were massed about the tables at the Biltmore hotel Tuesday night when Frank J. Marshall, American chess champion, was engaged with 26 of Georgia's best players.

Two of them, R. G. Pfefferkorn and Clyde Eidson, won decisions over the master, after some of the fastesst footwork and sparring that the local chess circles have ever seen. The victory of Pfefferkorn and the local chess circles have ever seen. The victory of Pfefferkorn and Eidson, which was won near about midnight, was greeted with much enthusiasm by the Georgia players who had gone down in defeat.

Some of them began folding their boards like the Arabs fold their tents and stealing silently away shortly after 9 o'clock, but a number of the players, especially some of the Macon Chess Club, stayed with the master until near the last round.

The tables were arranged in a sort of British square formation, with Mr. Marshall in the center. He is a tall, strong-looking man with hair that is turning iron-gray. He looks out with the keenest pair of eyes it has been my pleasure to see and h doesn't daily long before the board. And he all but broke the entire square.

He walked several miles playing his 26 opponents. There was little

First Outdoor Show of What amounts to a labor of love for golf and a shower of kindness to the conductor of this department was contained in Season Proves Success: a communication from Ralph L. Reed, ardent golfer and a Tragos Is Victor.

Atlanta's first outdoor wrestling program of the summer season Tuesday night at Spiller field was one of the most interesting and successful of the past few months. More than 3,500 fans sat back in the cool of the evening and enjoyed both matches, particularly the final, which was won by Dick Daviscourt.

It was one of the most unusual wrestling matches ever seen in Atlanta. Both men had an opportunity to get the decision after 14 minutes and 52 seconds of grappling but could not regain their senses enough to go to a neutral corner and the match was resumed. Striking conclusions offered by Mr. Reed's figures show that Scored 294 for the four COMPLETE 18-hole rounds he

BUTTING CONTEST.

It all happened when the two attempted to butt each other out of the ring. The two heavyweights met head-on and fell to the canvas. Referee Horace Lanford counted 10 and neither wrestler was able to go to a neutral corner. After several minutes both regained their senses and the match was resumed but both were in a bad way.

Daviscourt quickly put a headlock on Charley Fox, the Cleveland hard boy, to win.

When the wrestlers came back for the second fall, plenty action started and continued until the match ended in an open hand fight. Fox was clearly the aggressor in the final stages of the match and had Daviscourt scrambling to get out of his body scissors hold. Fox also used an armlock and toe hold to advantage to weaken his opponent.

The ring was placed just back of home plate on the baseball field and the lights were so arranged that the wrestlers were in clear view from all sections of the stands. Mr. Reed on a basis of newspaper reports on the tournament.

FIRST CRACK.

Grimes won the old ball game in the first inning with his first offering—a home run with two on. Not content with the plight he had placed Fielding Plue in, he continued to rap away, grabbing a pair of doubles and a single off Hasty. He was only responsible for five runs.

The Barons started out to hit with the Crackers, but John Dobbs sent Messenger to the mound in the first to save Jack Knight, and Johnay's messages to the Barons was full of grief. Andy slow-balled the Barons into a state of dizziness. He cut them lower than the butcher cut his man down. He spiked their guns with cotton and was awarded the game. And well did he deserve the pitching laurels. Rickwood was no safe place for a man with a each heart.

Andy Moore broke up a threatening washout in the fourth. The Crackers got only two runs when they might have made a dozen, Moore cutting Sheehan down at the plate after flagging Lamotte's fly with the bases loaded.

LIKES THE COAST.

"Yes," the former star added, "I'd like the coast. I've only seen it on spring exhibition trips, but it looked good to me."

Alex was asked whether he still thought he could win in the big leagues, and if he would seek a coaching or managerial job.

"That first question is hard to answer," said Alex, after a pause. "To tell the truth, I'm sfraid I'm through as a big league pitcher. It's like the one horse shay, you know, it doesn't list forever."

Alex wanted to impress upon his friends that he was given fine treatment by the Phils, to whom he returned last winter after an absence of 12 years. "Burt Shotton, the Phillies' manager, found it a hard job to tell me I was through, and there are no hard feelings. I tried to win, but I couldn't."

Sande Gives Edge to Gallant Fox in Belmont Park Duel

BOTH JOCKEYS AS RACE NEARS

First Meeting of Two Great Horses Finds Odds Even.

By Frank Getty.

United Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, June 3.—(UN)—The greatest duel between three-year-olds in many years is on the card at Belmont Park Saturday, when Harry Payne Whitney's Whichone and William Woodward's Gallant Fox look each other in the eye in the classic Belmont stakes, with $80,000, and the championship of the American turf in the balance.

Unbeaten as three-year-olds, with the season's classics thus far contested accounted for between them. Which-one and Gallant Fox stand out above their field. There is nothing now un-der silks in their division that can stay within many lengths of either of these great colts.

They are meeting in the Belmont at one and one-half miles in what is regarded as the best test of all, and opinion is so evenly divided as to the outcome that they may be equal choices with the public when they go to the barrier.

Earl Sande, who rode Gallant Fox to victory in the Wood Memorial, the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby, will have the leg up on the son of Sir Gallahad III-Marguerite, while Sonny Workman, who booted Whichone home in the Withers last Saturday will ride the pride of the Whitney stables.

Sande and Workman both are optimistic, but with strong reservations. The same applies to "Sunny Jim" Pitzsimmons and Tom Healy, trainers of Gallant Fox and Whichone, respectively.

The two great three-year-olds of 1930 haven't met thus far this year. Whichone was withdrawn from the Preakness and Kentucky Derby, while Gallant Fox, just back from Churchill Downs, declined the issue in the withers. As a two-year-old Whichone showed his heels to "The Fox" in the classic Futurity.

SLOW START.

Neither is a fast starter and both horses have been in trouble in their races this season. Whichone, a 1-to-10 shot, gave his backers all kinds of shivers Saturday when he was pocketed and dropped far back in the Withers. Gallant Fox was badly trapped in the Preakness. But what speed both showed when they were pried free by their riders and pointed for home.

Colleges Fast Becoming Main Source of Talent for Major Loop Clubs.

It was a perusal of The Baseball Blue Book, Mr. Louis Hellbroner's interesting publication, which aroused Mr. Kid Clay to action.

"There are just 24 baseball leagues listed in organized baseball," years ago, there were 32 leagues listed.

"If," said Mr. Kid Clay, "you will-look closer you will find where the decrease has been. It has all been in the small leagues where the young ball players must play for a time, unless they get college training, to learn how to become real ball players."

QUITE CORRECT.

SLOW BUT SURE.

All those leagues remain more or less stable with but few changes in the personnel. But below the Class A leagues there is a slow but sure decrease in baseball.

decrease in baseball.

Just two years ago there were seven Class B leagues. This season finds that number decreased to six, the Virginia league having dropped out.

There are just three Class C leagues listed for 1930 as against four in 1929, the Utah-Idaho league having passed on, so to speak.

leagues listed for 1930 as against four in 1929, the Utah-Idaho league having passed on, so to speak.

It is in the D leagues that the most serious decrease occurs. And that is where, as the Jacket coach says, that the young ball players must be developed. It is in leagues similar to the Georgia-Alabama league, that the young kids in the game must learn how to move up.

And since 1928 six leagues of that class have disappeared. There were 12 in 1928. This year there are but six.

"There are at least 100 young ball players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to players who can't get jobs," said the Mister Kid Clay, "They are willing to player ready to leave school."

The decrease in small leagues is forcing all the majors to give some thought to their prospective grounds, according to all baseball men.

BOARD OF GUARDIANS.

One scout confided to this reporter that his team was sending three young men to college and expected to send six next season. The major league clubs act as a sort of board of turned ians. They pay all expenses and rely on the boy's word that he will join them when he has had four years of college coaching.

Inman Park Cardinals are the first of the many teams playing under the auspices of the American Legion's sponsorship to suffer from disregard their first two games of the season as Major Trammell Scott declared their first two games of the season slosses instead of victories, as Tom Harper, their star mound ace, who participated in both games, is over the age limit.

Northwest Atlanta Juniors will be asked the reason for their failure to complete the opening game of the season, played against Smyrana, that them when he has had four years o college coaching.

It is all perfectly legitimate, the major league clubs making no attempt to sign the boys to contracts. Just how general the practice is, is a matter of conjecture. It is a practice which may be expected to grow. Quite a few of the boys haven't thought of it yet.

At any rate if your high school was

At any rate if your high school son shows narked proficiency in baseball there may be a chance of having some major league club adopt him and send him to college.

The old sand-lot days seem to be done with. The colleges are the incubators for big league baseball talent.

Former Manager of German Visits Scribes But Misses Schmeling.

Misses Schmeling.

ENDICOTT, N. Y., June 3.—(UN)
Arthur Bulow, Max Schmeling's discarded German manager, arrived in Endicott today for a visit with German mewspaper men attached to the Schmeling camp, but was detained by immigration officials and did not have an opportunity to see his former protege.

The immigration officials followed Bulow to Endicott and demanded to see his passport. Bulow's passport expired May 21 but he produced proof that he had deposited a bond with federal court covering his stay in the United States.

Both Schneling and Joe Jacobs, who succeeded Bulow as Schmeling's manager, denied having anything to do with the official's visit.

Bulow said he did not plan to harass or annoy Schmeling as Jack Kearns did Dempsey before the first Tunney fight at Philadelphia.

"I would like to shake Max's hand and wish him well," said Bulow. "If for nothing else I am a German and I want to see a German win the title. I will not even take the chance of a exciting Max by attending his work-outs."

Schmeling worked a total of six rounds today, against Jack Shaw, Frankie Rush, Karl Lackner and Umberto Torrianal.

The Teuton heavy had difficulty in keeping his mates in a vertical position.

Some unusually good matches were played Tuesday in the quarter and semi-finals of the singles of both divisions. Lem Bracewell, Tech High champion, defeated Malcolm Keiser, a fellow Tech High player, 7-5, 4-6, 8-6, in the feature match of the junior tourney. Bracewell then lost to Halverstadt in the semi-finals, while Reese in the lower bracket defeated Boyaton in straight sets in the juniors.

Roynton in straight sets in the juniors.

Boynton had little trouble in his semi-final match with Remus Harris and is a favorite to retain his title. He played Rainwater last year for the title. Today's play will be three out of five sets.

Crawford and Zeigler, the Russell High doables team, defeated Bracewell and Eindsay in three sets in the feature doubles match of the juniors but lost to Halverstadt and Cheshire in the semi-finals.

ORANGEBURG, N. Y.. June 3.—
(A)—Jack Sharkey's left hand was much in evidence today as the Boston sailor went through five rounds of boxing with his sparring partners in preparation for his June 12 battle with Max Schmeling. He weighed 200 pounds after today's workout, which included road work, shadow boxing and a triple. Hand hit three for and the usual calisthenics in addition to his five rounds of glove work.

SHARKEY LOOKS GOOD.

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 3.—Jack Sharkey today is as fine a looking section of fighting machinery as I have yet seen step into a training ring a week before any championship fight. He has improved more in the ways that count than any of the leading modern fighters who have passed their 25th year. Always a heavyweight who showed promise and then left some open gap, he seems to have all these gaps closed.

sed.

I will try to give you a picture of Sharkey as he looked this afterneon under a steaming sun working out with Grosso and Paul Cavalier. Imagine a fellow six feet in height who weighs 206 pounds in perfect condition. With these physical proportions to start with you can then get a picture of this same man with almost as much speed as a lightweight. A big man who is fast on his feet, fast with a big, powerful-looking body and fast with both hands.

I have watched Sharkey at work in training and actual fighting for nearly five years. But I have never seen the Boston Gob as he looked today, equipped with every weapon a champion needs ready to go on . THE MENTAL SIDE.

The old Sharkey was inclined to flare up, to bluster now and then, to lose his head. I sat today with Sharkey, Jim Corbett and Benny Leonard and listened to Sharkey discuss various phases of the fight—this and other fights—all coolly and without any flare-ups. I watched him in the ring when Grosso and Cavalier landed now and then and in place of abandoning his program and swarming in, he went along with his work as if nothing had happened. He was a different Sharkey.

Apparently he had lost none of his vicious attack when he got warmed up, but there was none of the rattle-brained tactics.

apparently he had lost none of his vicious attack when he got warmed up, but there was none of the rattle-brained tactics that now and then used to break up his pace. Grosso and Cavalier are hardly set-ups for anyone, but they were so badly outclassed, both at boxing and punching, that neither was even close to causing any trouble.

Sharkey was moving with the smoothness of a fine machine. point that was impressive was the speed with which he used either hand. I might say this point also impressed both Corbett and Leonard, who naturally appreciate what good two-handed hitting and boxing

TWO-HANDED STUFF.

One of the best looking spots in Sharkey's workout today was his two-handed attack. He seemed to be equally at home with either a right or left. There were times when he looked to be too much in love with the old right-hand wallop, but that won't get him in much trouble against a right-hand puncher, such as Schmeling is.

Against a fighter with a dangerous left hook or left jab this right-hand stuff might not work so well. Yet Sharkey's best weapon is his left, a hand he still uses with telling effect.

It was also noticeable today that Sharkey had shortened up his punches with both hands. There were no signs of wild swinging. He punches with both hands. There were no signs of wild swinging. He used plenty of leverage, but none of it was wasted. He used his two hands after the manner of a cat today. They came out like flashes and landed often before his opponents could interpose any defense. And they were stinging blows. Yet when Sharkey got his man in trouble he cooled off immediately and settled down to an easier pace.

A DIFFERENT ATTITUDE.

The old Sharkey felt that the public was against him and in turn he felt against the public. It used to be his attitude that the crowd could hate him all the crowd wanted to so long as he had their money. But the recent reception he got in Madison Square Garden seems to have changed him in this respect. I have seen him in training camps before where he paid no attention to any applause that was offered as he came into the ring. There was no thought of any return acknowledg-

Today as Sharkey stepped through the ropes the crowd packed around the ring applauded. Sharkey immediately stopped and offered a bow with a broad amile on his face. And the crowd, usually against him, was with him all the way.

Whether or not he can carry this same mental attitude into the ring against Schmeling is another story. If he does he will be the most dangerous heavyweight fighter the ring has seen in a long time. For he seems to have everything else. He can fight and he knows how to fight. On other occasions he has either blown up in a pinch or has to fight. On other occasions he has either blown up in a pinch of loafed along the route.

He says now that he sees all his past mistakes and that he has learned enough not to repeat along these lines. He admits mistakes in judgment he made against Dempsey, Heeney and Risko. But he is dead sure he will make no such mistakes against Schmeling. If he doesn't he will be hard to beat, for he will have the advantage of weight, speed, experience, power and boxing ability on his side with a two-handed attack to throw against a fighter whose best hand is the right and who has yet to show he could bother anyone with his left.

Sharkey today has every qualification to make a great fighter—if he only uses his stuff. He would be no set-up for Dempsey or Tunney at their top form so far as all the known qualifications go that make a

He looks to be cool and confident and anyone can see he hopes to stop his German rival in short order. He has no idea of plugging his way through any 15-round fight.

Apparently the only way he can lose, if one is to judge him by his present form, is for a complete mental breakdown in the ring. And the change that has come over him doesn't forecast any such event.

NEW YORK, Juhe 3.—An unusual feature of the two major league pennant races this season is the many leading teams which have slumped and tumbled from the top.

Out of the eight teams in both leagues which have been out in front at one time or another, only Brooklyn has eluded a prolonged losing streak since the Robins fluttered into the National league pennant race with 20 victories out of 28 games played in May. "My hands and eyes are tiredest," said Mr. Marshall after the match. "You see they used chessmen and boards of varying size and color. And it was hard on the eyes and hands."

Which was surprising, when one considers that for four hours Mr. Marshall had been walking on a tile floor which is noted for its lack of "give."

There were players present from Fort Valley, Macon and Union City. There was a great rush after the games to have Mr. Marshall autograph the boards.

Pfefferkorn has been playing chess since he was able to sit up and move the chessmen. And so has Edison. They played slow, deliberate games, and were praised very highly by the champion. Hoover Signs Carolina

Flood Relief Measure

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(P)—
President Hoover today signed the Blease-Hare bill providing relief in South Carolina for damage to and destruction of roads and bridges by floods last year.

The measure authorizes $805,561 for the work. Representative Hare, democrat, South Carolina, co-author of the bill, appeared yesterday before the house appropriations committee to urge the fund be provided in the second deficiency bill now being prepared.

The picture is chiefly remarkable for the dialogue, as was to be expected in a Lonsdale play. It fairly scintillates with witty lines enhanced by the fantasy of situation from which they arise.

The story, you will remember, deals with a London music hall actress who becomes engaged to the scion of one of England's proudest families—much to the disgust not only of her fiance's family, but of hers, also.

Thrown into the midst of the most exclusive English society, the actress proceeds to win her way into the most stubborn hearts. The emotional complications that ensue make the story—with the outcome in suspense until the

TROTHS PLIGHTED IN HOMES AND CHURCHES

Wedding Bells Will Chime Blanchaine-Lippold Wedding Today for June Brides

Wedding bells will chime merrily today for June brides plighting their troths in church and home ceremonies to the strains of "Here Comes the Bride," from "Lohengrin," in the presence of immediate relatives and tashionable gatherings of intimate friends and acquaintances. St. Luke's church, on Peachtree street, will be aglow this evening with candlelight and flowers, a fitting setting for the wedding of Miss Marion Cobb Bryan and Walter Colquitt Carter, the charming bride-elect joining the ranks of young matrons without first making her debut in Atlanta society.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Little and Charles Albert Meriwether will be solemnized in the First Baptist church on Peachtree street at the sunset hour of 5:30 o'clock, an array of bridal attendants preceding them to the altar and forming picturesque tableau. Other marriages, taking place in distant cities, warrant the attention and interest of society, for Miss Mary Frank Satterfield weds Frank Troutman, of Atlanta, in Christ Episcopal church in Macon. An erstwhile Atlantan, Miss Harriet Rhodes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lee Rhodes, of Atlanta and Colorado Springs, Col., weds Warren Allison Hall and will be a brilliant high noon ceremony, taking place at the residence of the bride-elect on Wood avenue in Colorado Springs, for this charming bride-to-be was born and reared here and claims Colorado only by adoption.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

BY THORNTON BURGESS. Though getting even doesn't pay, It seems the universal way.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit was over at the Smiling Pool. Peter cannot keep away from the Smiling Pool at this time of year, because so much is going on

If nothing happens pretty oon. I believe I'll take a nap." Nothing did happen and presently Peter was actually dozing. He wasn't n a safe place at all. Presently, as he sat there dozing, the ground began to move under him. At least, that is the way it felt. Peter's eyes flew open. He looked hastily this way and that; then he grinned. "That must have been a dream," thought he. "I have been a dream," thought he. "It certainly gave me a funny feeling. It made my stomach feel queer. It certainly must have been a—" Peter didn't finish. You see, the ground did move under him again. It wasn't a dream. Peter distinctly felt that ground rise beneath hmi.

Peter was dozing no longer. His eyes were wide open—as wide as he could get them. He hastily jumped to one side and turned to look at the place where he had been sitting. "It is so!" he muttered, quite as if he didn't believe what he was saying. "It really is so! The ground is pushed up right where I was sitting. What is more, it is being pushed up a little further along."

It was true. Even as Peter looked.

It was true. Even as Peter looked, the ground was pushed up in a little ridge. When he looked back to where he had been sitting, he saw that that little ridge continued for some distance. It had been freshly pushed up. Peter began to chuckle. "Miner the Mole!" he exclaimed. "It is my old friend Miner the Mole! What under the sun is he doing away down here, and how did he get here? No wonder I was startled. Miner is digging one of his tunnels and he must be pretty close to the surface to push the earth up that way. He gave me a scare. Now I'll get even with him. I'll give him 4 scare."

So Peter hopped over to the spot It was true. Even as Peter looked,

I'll give him a scare."

So Peter hopped over to the spot where the earth was being pushed up and thumped with his stout hindfeet. He thumped hard. Yes, sir, he thumped hard. Then he looked back at the little ridge. Once he thought he saw it move ever so little, as if some one was meying beneath it. He wasn't quite sure of this, however. Having thumped two or three times, Peter sat down in the shade of a big fern to watch. He suspected that he had frightened Miner the Mole so that he wouldn't work again for a while.

that he wouldn't work again for a while.

"Probably," thought Peter, "Miner has run back. That is what made the earth move a little back there. I don't believe he'll do any more digging here for a while. I guess I'm even with him now. However, I wish he would come out. It is a long time since I have seen Miner the Mole and there are some questions I should like to ask him."

But though Peter sat there for a long, long time, he saw no more signs of the little tunnel digger, who had tunneled right under him and so startled him. Finally Peter gave up and went about his business.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Puckett will for more than 14 years. Later they nark their golden wedding anniverant Sunday, June 8, at their home, 56 Fair street, 8. W. Mr. and Mrs. Puckett was formerly connected with a local newspaper. He has been identified with a number of outstanding fraternal organizations, including the Order of Red Men. Mr. and Mrs. Puckett attend the Presbyterian church. Mr. Puckett, who have completed 50 years of successful married life, have made their home here during the greater part of their lives, having become endeared to a wide circle of friends. They were married June 8, 1880, by the late Dr. Albert T. Spalding, well known Baptist minister, at his home on Capitol avenue. Interest in this golden anniversary is added through the fact that Mr. Puckett, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Puckett, was born in the old home which was located on the present site of The Constitution, his parents having been at that time owners of a large tract of land located now between Alabama, Broad and Forsyth streets.

Mrs. Puckett, the former Miss Elizabeth Collier, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Collier, was born in Opelaka, Ala., (where she resided for the first two years of her life, moving later to Decatur, where she made her home on the Covington road. At the age of 16 years she moved to Atlanta. Following their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Puckett made their home in Atlanta, moving later to North Carolina, where they made their home 256 Fair street, S. Mrs. James R. Little, parents of the bride, at their home on Peachtree road.

The home was artistically decorated with colorful spring flowers, which were placed about the reception rooms where the guests were received. In the diming room the bride's table was overlaid with a real lace cloth, and in the center was a large bridal cake, made in three tiers. It was white and heavily embossed with white icing. White tapers and white flowers were used in the decorations of the table. The table was a gift of the groom's mother, Mrs. James A. Meriwether, of Lynchburg, and is an heirloom of the Meriwether family, having been purchased in 1790 by the groom's great-great-grandfather, Charles Meriwether, whose name he bears. Charles Meriwether, who was an outstanding citizen of old Virginia, was a grandson of Nicolas Meriwether, one of the first settlers of Virginia. The table is of walnut, and is of Duncan Phyfe design.

Miss Little wore a lovely imported gown of flowered taffets, made with full skirt. She wore a corsage of orchids and illies of the valley.

Mrs. Little was gowned in blue chiffon, made on long lines. She wore a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley.

WHEAT VALUES FEEL ADVANCE

Associated Press Market Editor. CHICAGO, June 3 .- (AP)-Ominous crop conditions both north and south of the Canadian boundary, together with shrinkage of the world's wheat available supply lifted wheat values late today.

High winds and dust storms were reported as again damaging spring wheat over wide areas, and the crop condition in Saskatchewan was figured as having been reduced 5 per cent within the last week, world stocks of wheat were announced as down to but little more than 3,000,-000 bushels over the total at this 000 bushels over the total at this time last year.

In contrast with early declines today, wheat closed firm at virtually the top level, 1-2c to 1c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-4c to 5-8c advance, oats 1-2c to 3-4c up, and provisions varying from 35c setback to a rise of 30c.

At first the wheat market was largely dominated by monthly unofficial estimates indicating that the 1930 United States winter crop will be larger than was forecast a month ago. Today's June crop summaries by private crop authorities put the probable total domestic winter wheat this season at 544,000,000 bushels, the average unofficial estimate a month compared with 554,000,000 bushels, the average unofficial estimate a month ago, and with the government's May estimate of 525,000,000 bushels. The new monthly reports, however, pointed out that conditions in spring wheat territory are precarious as to subsoil moisture, and that more than usual rainfalls are necessary for the spring crop from now on until harvest.

Disquieting advices about renewal of dust storms came streaming in later from Canadian wheat territory, and similar reports were at hand also as to North Dakota and northwest Minnesota, These reports soon proved as to North Dakota and northwest Minnesota, These reports soon proved effective in turning the wheat market upward, and more than offset June monthly unofficial forecasts of a domestic spring wheat crop of 257,000,000 bushels this season compared with 252,000,000 bushels indicated a year ago. Meanwhile, too, numerous messages from the southwest and portions of the west today gave stress to talk of prospective light yields of winter wheat on account of thin stands as well as short heads. In this connection, predictions were anent that threshing returns later will show lower yields than are at present looked for as a rule.

Corn displayed in dependent strength from the outset and oats followed suit. Traders in corn were inclined to be anxious about reports that general rains are needed all over the corn belt.

NEW YORK, June 3.—With the weather generally favorable over the belt, cotton again sagged off under rather persistent selling of new crops. Pressure, however, was not aggressive and we doubt any radical change for the immediate future inamuch as promising June conditions are often deceptive and in our opinion the trade is likely to exercise caution in pressing the short side. Japanese brokers were credited with selling considerable October, December, January and March with the buying scattered. July was relatively steady due to price fixing or transferring to new-crop deliveries. Coffee.

Associated Press Financial Writer.
NEW YORK, June 3.—(4)—Today's bond trading was, in a large measure, a repetition of yesterday's. The improved demand for issues in the foreign list, particularly among the less active, continued and raised price levels, but the general tone of the market was dull.
Easing of time money rates lent some strength to the best grade issues in the railroad, utility and industrial groups as shown by the averages, but their example was not emulated and there numerous bonds lost ground.
For the first time in many years the 30-day time money rate broke bellow 3 per cent, the rate for call money, and was quoted at 23-4 per cent bid and 3 per cent asked. Banks were said to be anticipating a possible plethora of money around June 15.

FENNER & BEANE.

New YORK, June 3.—Cotton was easier again Tuesday with July losing only a few points while the new crops lost around $1 the point of the largest sellers due to weakness in silk and silver. Wall Street interests and locals also sold on good weather and belief that the crop is improving. The south also sold some and a few stoploss orders were reached. Trade interests did most of the buying.

The map showed no rain of consequence and temperatures were near normal except the top of the recent raily and Arkansas Wednesday and generally fair for the remainder.

NEW YORK. June 3.—When the market turned dull on the advance it was practically an invitation to the bears to depress prices, if only to sound out the underlying demand. The advance brought the market back Tuesday morning to exactly its high point of about the middle of May. A number of stocks were able to make new highs but enough others hung back to keep down the averages. Under the circumstances it was natural that the initiative should again pass to pessimistic professionals. Those working for lower prices were greatly helped today by publication of steel production figures by Dow-Jones & Co. showing a drop of almost 5 per cent in the past week by the Steel Corporation, which has for some weeks past been sustaining its output very steadily around 80 per cent. NEW YORK, June 3.—Continued evidence of a sluggish trade situation is holding back aggressive buying activities in the stock market, but we see evidence of careful accumulation in anticipation of business improvement later in the year. Credit conditions still reflect an absence of active commercial demand, but it is well to bear in mind that they are particularly favorable to a stimulation of industry once the expected recovery gets under way. A firm stock market in the face of current declines in business should go a long way toward reviving business confidence.

Offering of the German annuities bonds is scheduled for early next week, and the success of the American participation is yirtually assured. With this important operation out of the way, we look for greater banking interest in the stock market. Deals which may be expected to have strong banking sponsorship are understood to involve a number of oil companies.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Anticipated selling pressure materialized in the latter part of Tuesday's session, forcing recessions in most of the leading trading issues. Supporting orders under the market were plentiful enough, however, to keep recessions within very moderate bounds.

The selling movement was precipitated by unfarorable reports from the steel industry, which indicated that operations of United States Steel Corporation were down to 75 per cent of capacity, compared with 19½5 the week before last. The industry as a whole is operating at slightly under Tiper cent against 73 per cent a week ago, and 75 per cent two weeks ago. Furthermore, another decrease in unfilled enders as of May 31, is expected to be reported due to the limited scale of recent buying.

Up to 2 o'cleck volume of that any points of the last of minutes selling became more aggreesive and volume was more than 200,000 Monday.

Weather conditions in the cotton belt are about perfect and demand for cloth remains unsatisfactory. Momentarily the situation is without bullish aspect and under prevailing conditions it appears the market will work somewhat lower.

This decrease compares with a gain of $406,829,020 in the previous month. The drop is substantially larger than the weekly brokerage loan figures, over a roughly corresponding period, had indicated. These figures had indicated a decline of only $252,000,000.

The present total of loans, exceeding $4,700,000,000, compares with a record high of approximately $4,500,000,000 reached at the end of September, and a low level just under $4,000,000,000 reached at the end of January.

At today's annual meeting of Standard Oil of 'New Jersey shareholders the sale of 1,200,000 shares of Tidewater Associated Oil to a syndicate made up of Tidewater Oil Associated officials, including President Bylee, of Tidewater, was explained in response to an inquiry. Standard Oil of New Jersey received Tidewater Oil stock in the dissolution of 1911 and for many years the Tidewater dividends were satisfactory. Since Tidewater merged with Associated Oil in 1926 dividends have been spotty. Owning only 20 per cent of Tidewater Associated stock, Standard Oil decided to sell and use the funds in controlled companies.

is daily protecting thousands of Manufacturers and Jobbers against such losses. Many of these concerns originally felt (perhaps like yourself), that they did not need our protection. Then possibly a large, wholly unexpected, credit loss hit them-and the great basic value of credit insurance was forcibly brought home to them.

Again let us emphasize that you can't possibly foresee bad debt losses, but you can safeguard against them—thoroughly and economically-with American Credit Insurance. Furthermore, you benefit by our many Service Features.

NEW YORK, June 3 .- (P)-Cot-NEW YORK, June 3.—(P)—Cotton was lower today under a comparatively small volume of offerings which were evidently encouraged by the favorable view of the weather news and reports of a continued poor demand for cotton goods. The selling was not aggressive but demand was limited and prices worked gradually lower with the new October contract selling off to 14.43 or 19 points net lower and closing at that figure. The general market closed barely steady at a decline of 11 points on July, while new crop months showed net losses of 19 to 23 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 points on lule vance of 2 points on July which ap-peared to be influenced by some cov-ering or trade buying while later months were generally 2 to 12 points lower in response to the favorable weather map. Unfavorable trade adweather map. Unfavorable trade advices from Manchester and reports of a continued slow demand in the domestic markets with talk of continued mestic markets with talk of continued mill curtailment, seemed to increase the disposition to sell on the favorable average of crop advices. The dips brought in some buying which temporarily checked the decline around 15.95 for July and 14.50 for the new October contract, but the demand was supplied and the market reached the lowest prices of the day in the late trading. July closed at 15.90, the old October contract at 14.73 and the new December at 14.51. Except for light showers at three or four stations in Texas detailed weather reports showed no rainfall with generally clear weather in the south. Expectations of a favorable weekly review from the weather bureau tomorrow as well as the favorable view of immediate weather conditions, were considered a contributing factor on the decline. Average Falls.

Dow Jones & Co. estimated that the average for the industry was slightly under 71 per cent against 73 1-2 last week, with the independents showing a smaller loss than U. S. Steel.

The dullness of security markets since the decline early in May was emphasized by the decline of $315,299,447 in New York Stock Exchange member loans on collateral during May. The total at the end of the month was $4,747.831.912 and the reduction contrasted with a gain of

Modernism Attacked Before Adventists

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3 .-- (A)-SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—(A)—
The fight against modernism today had been taken into the world convention here of the Seventh Day Adventists, the result of a statement presented to the educational council yesterday by Pgor G. G. Kretchmar, of Walla Walla college, Washington.

Walla Walla college, Washington.

"We accept the Bible as the revealed word of God and believe that the Genesis record of a literal creation is an inspired record of a historical fact," Dr. Kretchmar's statement read. "We utterly repudiate the implication that man originated from any lower form of life. We look forward to the soon coming of Christ, which will usher in the final restoration of nature to its original persistence."

Baron, of Miami, a veteran of the Civil War, has begun suit for divorce, charging his mate of more than a half century with possessing a violent temper and cruelty.

According to the complaint, filed by Baron's attorney in Dade county court, the couple were near divorce in 1920. Relations became so strained they signed a separation agreement.

Deciding to make a second attempt at harmony, the couple began living together again in 1929. But in April of this year there was a violent quarrel during which Baron became ill, and Mrs. Baron, it is charged, left, telling him he was "old and worthless." Her present whereabouts are unknown.

NEW YORK, June 3.—(P)—Curb stocks generally drifted lower today, in sympathy with the decline on the stock exchange. Trading still held at the slow pace of 600,000 shares a day, and losses were largely limited to a point or two.

Electric Bond and Share was apparently uninfluenced by its annual report, published this morning, and sagged more than 2 points. American Gas Broke 4 points. Issues losing a point or so included Associated Gas A, American Light and Traction. Hydro Electric Securities and United Light A. United Gas new stock lost about a point, as the United Gas merger was declared operative.

"SPECIAL DELIVERY"

A Part of the Delivery Fleet of International Harvester Trucks Used by the Model Laundry of Atlanta

"Everybody Likes Them"

THESE famous light delivery trucks have served the Model Laundry in a supremely satisfactory manner, just as they are serving countless other businesses in Atlanta.

Smart truck operators never count their costs on purchase price alonethey let miles and time and tons tell the story. And there's where the Special Delivery shows the stuff. Not only low in first cost, but remarkably economical in upkeep and operation. These trucks have all the speed and power you'll ever want to use, and they are as good looking as they are sound and sturdy. The 4-ton Special Delivery is the popular truck throughout the entire light-hauling field; it is in demand by bakers, painters and decorators, plumbers, laundries, dry cleaners, candy shops, florists, haberdasheries and fast-delivery men in general. This good-looking, sturdy truck is thoroughly modern in every detail, and you can have it equipped with any kind of body.

Other International models and sizes: The 1-ton Six-Speed Special: Speed Trucks, 14, 12, 2 and 3-ton; and Heavy Duties, 21 to 5-ton. Whatever your hauling needs, come in and give the complete International line a thorough going-over.

latter country agrees to do likewise, Foreign Minister Dino Grandi announced in the senate today. BONDS. The announcement caused the great-The announcement caused the greatest interest in view of the recent war-like utterances of Premier Mussolini which were interpreted as hostile to France. If France accepted Grandi's proposal, Italy would defer construction of one cruiser, two scout ships, four destroyers and 22 submarines approved by the cabinet on April 30 for this year's program.

He also announced that Franco-

He also announced that Franco He also announced that Franco-Italian negotiations regarding colonial compensations to Italy under the Lon-don act of 1915 and the status of Italian residents in Tunis had been suspended since last September. He said Italy had proposed a direct ex-change of views between Rome and Paris toward solving these two prob-lems, but France replied she preferred to resume the negotiations through to resume the negotiations through diplomatic channels and await their outcome before opening the discussion of Franco-Italian naval matters.

ROME, June 3 .- (UN)-Italy is willing to suspend its 1930 naval program during the proposed disarmament discussions with France if the

Under the treaty of 1915, Italy was promised colonial compensation by both France and Britain in return for breaking the alliance with Germany and Austria and joining the allies in the World War. She claims France never kept her part of the bargain, and ahe desires especially the rectification of her borders in Libya so that she can expand to the southward and westward in that colonial possession.

in the French protectorate of Tunis, who greatly outnumber the French people living there.

Mussolini's recent speeches have been interpreted in some quarters as a wedge to reopen the discussions. Observers generally have believed Franco-Italian disagreement, as exhibited at London, to be based on the colonial deadlock.

For half an hour the trail led the ape-man toward the east along a well-marked game path, when sud-denly, to the stalker's astonishment, the quarry broke into sight, racing madly back along the narrow way straight toward the hunter. The ape-man zan. Taglat might travel far but Tarzan would find him in the end, though he had to search every tree in the mighty forest. Soliloquizing thus, the ape-man followed the spoor of Bara, the deer, upon which he had decided to satisfy his hunger. swung quickly into the branches of a tree over-hanging the trail. There he crouched, a savage beast of prey awaiting the coming of its victim. What had frightened the deer into so frantic a retreat, Tarzan could only guess.

Whatever it was mattered little to Tarzan of the Apes—he was ready and willing to defend his kill the tree, his keen gray eyes scanning the pathway against any other denizen of the jungle. On came the running deer. The ape-man turned so that his what manner of killer pursued Bara, or how close poised with bent knees upon the gently swaying limb above the trail, timing with keen ears the nearing hoof beats of the frightened Bara. In a moment the victim passed beneath the limb and the ape-man dropped down upon its back.

Dying Man Jokes

With Rescue Workers

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 3. (UN)—His legs crushed by a huge girder, John Tercynski, 65-year-old engineer, lay partially buried for three hours today in the debris caused by explosion of a vat of boiling fat at the Rosenberg Rendering plant. While police and firemen were working to rescue him, Tercynski re-mained conscious and argued with a surgeon who said an amputation might be necessary.

Floridian Charged With Ax-Slaying

MARIANNA, Fla., June 3.—(F)—
Robert McQuagge, 26-year-old farmer living at Hasty pond, near here, was arrested at a primary election poll late today shortly after he is alleged to have killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Sennie Tayton, 45, with an axe, following a family altereation. A coroner's jury ordered him held on a charge of first degree murder.
Sheriff Lewis, who arrested McQuagge at an election poll shortly after the killing, said McQuagge had accosted Mrs. Tayton in a chicken yard at their home and almost decapitated her with the axe.

Antrim County State bank here was robbed, to six.

With the shooting and capture of the Elliott brothers this afternoon, officers had in custody three of the four bandits. Sylvester Elliott, a third brother, surrendered last night to state troopers when they surprised him emerging from a swamp several miles west of here. He was unarmed and offered no resistance. Officers said the Elliotts named Jim Kelley, former Kalamazoo policeman, as the fourth member of their gang. He is reported to have caught a freight train this morning and escaped.

today in state supreme court.

The suits were filed by Gene McCann, representing himself and persons holding approximately 300,000 shares of the 5,500,000 shares of stock issued by American Trustee Share, a fixed trust. The shares, of a value of over $50,000,000, are dealt in by brokers all over the United States.

McCann, in his petition, alleged that the Chatham Phenix and Throckmorton and company, Wall Street brokers, who formed the American Share corporation, conspired to sell stock rights and stock dividends of shares held by the trust at less than the best price obtainable in the open market, as provided in the trust agreement. They thus defrauded trust share holders of rightful dividends, he charged.

McCann also demands that Throcks.
